ECO -DOG & Citizen Artist

Present

A new Citizen Artist Norfolk project has begun. It is called Eco-Dog. It is a solar-powered bio-filtered rain catchment dog watering station. The design phase is complete (thanks to the 757 Makerspace team). The prototype space is secured for installation at a business on Colley Ave. Next week, a city planning meeting. Meanwhile, Nicole Harp is gathering donations for materials and may have special donor gifts for all those ecologically minded Norfolk dog owners who want to go down in Norfolk dog owner history. This green solar powered cutting edge water catchment system will be the talk of Ghent, stainable by collecting, filtering and dispensing clean water with a highly aesthetic design appearance.

This supplies water to citizens and business owners.

What you get when you donate: 1 tag with your dog of business name on it and 1 tag to be mounted on outside of the fountain.
